MANY FARMERS WILL GO BFFORE COMMISSIONERS

City Administration to be Asked to Amend Meat Inspection and Produce Peddling Ordinances--Positions Taken by Commissioners in Support of Ordinances.

The outlook is for a large attendance of members of the Guilford County Farmers' Union in this city Saturday for the purpose of attending to various matters of business, but especially for the purpose of going before the Board of Commissioners regarding the meat inspection ordinance and the ordinance prohibiting peddling on Elm street and West Gaston between Elm and Green and on Market between Green and Davie.

As will be seen from a communication elsewhere in today's Telegram the farmers all over the county, especially those who do business in Greensboro, are aroused over these ordinances and they will enter a strong protest against the ordinances as now in effect.

Before going before the commissioners the farmers will hold an open meeting for the purpose of hearing from the citizens of the city regarding the proposed ordinances and obtain their assistance in urging the city officials to amend the meat inspection ordinance. The Telegram is requested to urge upon farmers the importance of being present in large numbers so they can show the commissioners the way the majority of the farmers throughout the county feel regarding the meat ordinance, which they contend is unnecessarily rigid as it stands at present.

As has been stated in The Telegram on several occasions the commissioners feel that the ordinance is necessary to the best health interests of the citizens of the city and was not drawn purposely to impose a hardship upon the farmers or to discourage them in raising meats for marketing. In requiring that cattle and hogs be slaughtered where the inspector could superintend the killing it is stated, they state, upon the information from the inspector that it was impossible to properly inspect meats unless the inspection is both before and after the killing and the intestines, as well as the liver, lungs, heart and kidneys, be subjected to a rigid inspection. This course, it is understood, is the one pursued by all government inspectors.

Again the farmers state that the western meats are not inspected after being brought here, but this is not true, the commissioners state. The inspector makes a daily visit to every market in the city and not only inspects all meats, fish and oysters in stock, but also all tools and appliances used by the butcher. If any of the meat is found unsound it is condemned and saturated with kerosene to prevent its being used. If the appliances are not in a sanitary condition the market or stall is condemned and closed until said appliances are put in proper condition. So, the officials state, all meats are subjected to two or more inspections and unless it is sold at once to as many as four inspections.

The city officials also state that their inspections laws are not as rigid as are those of High Point, Winston and many other places in the state. They believe that when the farmers are fully acquainted with all the reasons they will have to admit that the ordinance is not more rigid than is necessary.

The exact atitude of the farmers toward the ordinance prohibiting them from peddling on Elm street is not known, but it is understood that they want to sell their produce on every street in the city.

In regard to this proposition Commissioner Brown, who was instrumental in getting the ordinance passed, states that many other cities, Winston and Danville for instance, have ordinances requiring that all persons selling produce sell

CAL MEADOW IS ARRESTED AFTER A BESPERATE STRUGGLE

Beckley, W. Va., Aug. 17.—Cal Meadow, the mountain gun fighter, who was wanted for hacking Thomas Caddle and Ben Thompson into shreds, was captured last night after a desperate struggle in the cabin of his mother. The officers were attacked by Meadow's mother, his sweetheart and two other women who wielded clubs and axes in a desperate attempt to prevent them from seizing the person of Meadow.

COST OF SMALL POX IN STATE DURING LAST YEAR

State Secretary of Health Rankin Figures That Each Case Cost $150

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary of the North Carolina Board of Health gives out a statement showing that there were seventy-two foci of infection in smallpox in the state between October and February last, that is cases that made independent appearance in the State and that from these there developed 915 cases that cost the respective counties $9,775, or $150 per case.

This shows 12 5-7 cases developed from each foci. He gives a tabulated statement showing that in the cost of smallpox in the State Wilson county led with 17 foci costing the State $2,550, and Forsyth is second with 16 cases and cost of $2,400. Wake is next highest with four foci that cost $600 and the others of the twenty-six counties included in the report show from one to three foci and correspondingly low costs of treating the cases. Furthermore, it is shown that Virginia cost this state 2 foci and $600. Georgia 4 foci and $600. He says the most remarkable control of the disease was in Gaston county where Dr. L. N. Glenn had six independent foci of the disease and not a single additional case developed from either of them. Also in Guilford county the county superintendent had nine foci of infection and only 33 cases developed this, Dr. Rankin says, is especially remarkable in that Greensboro and Guilford are in such close touch to Forsyth county which was next to the most disastrous county in the report from the viewpoint of spread of the disease.

HIS THUMB TORN LOOSE FROM HAND; TENDON FOLLOWED

J. W. Weatherly Suffered Painful Accident This Morning Near City.

James Wesley Weatherly, a well-known farmer who lives six miles south of the city, had a painful accident this morning, in which he lost two joints of his right thumb and the tendon attached. The injury while quite painful is not serious beyond the loss of the thumb.

Mr. Weatherly was coming to the city in his buggy, leading a horse behind. The rein attached to the horse's bridle was wrapped around his thumb and when the animal suddenly jerked backward he tore the thumb loose at the first joint and broke the thumb tendon at the elbow, pulling the tendon completely loose from the arm. Dr. J. T. Rieves was notified by telephone of the accident and he at once went to the scene in an automobile. It was found necessary to amputate the thumb at the second joint in order to get a solid covering.

The injury was quite painful and it will probably be some time before Mr. Weatherly can use his arm. Dr. Rieves stated that he did not think the breaking of the tendon would cause any trouble in healing as it broke loose at the elbow at the point it was attached to the elbow joints. In short the tendon was torn out by the roots. As the tendon only controlled the thumb it will not affect the use of the fingers after the wound has healed.

The accident occurred several miles from the city about eight o'clock this morning.

Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., His Murdered Wife and Two Important Witnesses For the Prosecution.

The trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., charged with wife murder, is expected to occupy not longer than two weeks. Troops have been assigned to duty at the Chesterfield courthouse, fifteen miles from Richmond, Va., during the trial. Beulah Binford, the defendant's "affinity," and his cousin, Paul Beattie, will be the chief witnesses for the prosecution. It is alleged that Beattie sought to get rid of his wife in order to marry Miss Binford. Paul Beattie has told the police that he bought for his cousin the gun with which Mrs. Beattie was shot.

TOGO

Had Attack of Acute Indigestion Today — Boston Plans are Broken up.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 17.—Admiral Togo was suddenly stricken with acute indigestion this morning and as a result all plans for his entertainment while in Boston have been cancelled. The Navy Department was notified of the Admiral's illness by Third Assistant Secretary of State Candler Hale.

NEGRO SHOT BY A UNITED STATES MARSHAL

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—It was reported here yesterday that near Eagle Rock a United States Deputy Marshal had shot and killed Jim Mitchener, a negro, near Eagle Rock, that a hunt was being made for a blockade still, and that Mitchener, found at one, made a fight afiainst the officer, who shot and killed him.

Reports from Eagle Rock, however, are that the name of the officer is not known, but that he was attempting to serve a warrant on Mitchener when the negro assaulted him, threw him down and was making a hard fight for the officer's pistol. The officer managed to get his pistol out and fired at Mitchener, who ran into the swamp. The officer thought he had wounded him, but the last report from Eagle Rock was that the negro had returned to his home two miles away and that if he was wounded at all it was only a slight wound.

There was inquiry made at the marshal's office here but there was no information as to the matter given out.

THE FLEMING HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—The failure of the defendant, Percy B. Fleming, to specify times and places in his answer to the complaint of his wife, Mrs. Nelle Claire Crouch Fleming in her writ of habeas corpus proceeding against him for the custody of the two children, necessitated the postponement of the hearing before Chief Justice Walter Clark yesterday until this morning at 10 o'clock. In his answer Fleming charged that Mrs. Fleming is not a fit person to have the children, in that she has been unfaithful to him. The demand that acts and times of unfaithfulness be specified came from counsel for the wife and was granted by the chief justice. Counsel for Mr. Fleming intimated that his client preferred to reserve this phase of evidence for a divorce suit that he contemplates but agreed to give at the next hearing particulars of the charges against his wife that caused him to leave her and take the children away, giving names of alleged correspondents.

At the hearing Mrs. Fleming was again accompanied by her father, H. E. Crouch, of Washington, and her sister. The two children and their nurse were there and played affectionately with both parents before and after court session.

Crops Developing Nicely.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—At the State Department of Agriculture the statement is made that there are still numbers of sections, especially along the line of northern counties bordering the Virginia line and in some parts of the west that continue very dry much to the injury of the crop conditions. The rains, it is said at the department, continue to be very much "in spots." However, taking the State over the crops are developing nicely now.

CHURCH

And State Separation May Cause Much Trouble in Portugal

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 17.—Anarchists are today addressing mobs on the street corners, advising all workmen to strike and enflaming the masses against the government. The radicals are urging all anti-government factions to unite with the Catholics of the northern part of Portugal and resist the efforts of the administration to separate the property of the Church and State.

SEATS FOR RALEIGH'S NEW AUDITORIUM.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—A contract just awarded requires that the seats for Raleigh's new auditorium shall be in place by October 1. The seats for the first floor or arena will be moveable so that that section can be used for balls and other events. Opera chairs with fixed position will be in the galleries. The capacity will be eight thousand. It is expected that the municipal section of the building will be furnished and ready for the various departments of the city government to occupy them by November 1. The contract for this equipment is to be awarded September 1.

FUNERAL OF JOHNSTON CASTS GLOOM OVER MEET.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The funeral of St. Croix Johnstone, who was killed when his aeroplane collapsed in the air on Tuesday, cast a pall over the International Aviation Meet here today. The funeral services were held in the Boydston Chapel, before the body was cremated.

BINFORD GIRL'S ILLNESS MAY DELAY BEATTIE TRIAL

Now Believed That She Has Contracted Typhoid Fever---Judge J. F. West Will Be the Trial Judge---Beattie Predicts Acquittal.

Richmond, Va., Aug 17.—The illness of Beulah Binford, it is believed, will cause the postponement of the trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., whose trial for the murder of his wife was set for Monday. The physicians attending the Binford girl are unable as yet to diagonse the malady, but it is believed that she has contracted a severe case of typhoid fever.

Owing to the critical illness of the father-in-law of Judge Watson the governor has designated Judge J. F. West as the trial judge who will preside over court during the trial of Beattie.

Today's Richmond Virginian has the following regarding the case:

Detective Scherer was undisturbed yesterday when reports reached him that Bulah Binford was suffering from a fever which might develop into typhoid, and that Paul D. Beattie was on the verge of a breakdown which might make it impossible for him to testify if the trial begins in the near future.

Mr. Scherer was unperturbed outwardly, but the fact that he was very much interested in the physical condition of his two most important witnesses was shown by his immediate investigation of the reports. He ascertained in a short time that neither the Binford girl or Paul Beattie is in danger of serious illness.

When Beulah Binford suffered an attack of nervousness about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, displaying symptoms similar to those which characterized her illness at Chesterfield Courthouse on Monday, Dr. J. Fulmer Bright was summoned at once. He found the girl was in no danger of serious illness.

Paul Beattie's weak physical condition is attributed entirely to his confinement. Accustomed to work in the open, daily physical exercise and a lover of the freedom which allows a man to follow his inclination without hindrance, Paul chafts at his enforced sojourn behind the steel barred doors and windows of Henrico jail. Physicians who have him under surveillance point out that he was not strong when placed in jail.

The shock of his arrest and subsequent collapse, resulting from the excitement of confessing that he bought a shotgun and shells for his cousin was a strain on Paul Beattie and for a time it even was believed he would lose his mind. Imprisonment in no way has aided Beattie in recuperating and physicians are not surprised that he is physically weak.

But they are inclined to scout the idea that either Beulah Binford or Paul Beattie will suffer a collapse which will prevent them taking the witness stand when the case is tried. It is believed that if either of the witnesses were allowed their freedom for a week they would be restored to a normal condition in that time.

Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., made a statement yesterday containing an inference that he will be acquitted within a month. Beattie said: "I cannot discuss my case with you but I'll see you next month."

It is almost a repetition of a remark he made on the day he was arrested. The coroner's jury had just adjourned and Beattie had walked to a window in the home of Coroner Loving, looking in at Beulah Binford, who lay on the floor in hysterics. He was asked to express his opinion of the status of the case. The question was asked just a short time after his arrest and almost immediately after the sensational developments of

DEFENDANT WINS DAMAGE SUIT IN SUPERIOR COURT

Several Cases Have Been Compromised — The Work of the Court.

In Guilford Superior Court late yesterday afternoon the jury in the case of A. L. Holloway vs. the Erwin Cotton Mills Company returned a verdict favoring the defendant. The suit was for the recovery of damages in the sum of $25,000.

The court then took up the case of John A. Young vs. Southern Railway Company in which the plaintiff is seeking to recover damages in the sum of $1,016 because of failure to prperly transport fruit trees. The case went to the jury just before the noon recess today, a verdict being returned for the plaintiff.

The case of W. B. Trogdon vs. J. H. Fonville, J. C. Foscue and R. J. Williams has been compromised, the plaintiff securing $45. The case of A. Horwitz vs. Lindsay Johnson and Cora Johnson has been compromised. The thirteen cases of Dannenberg Bros. vs. Southern Railway Company were compromised yesterday afternoon for $150. The suit was to recover damages on account of the failure of the defendant to properly handle shipments for the plaintiff.

THE ANGRY NEWSPAPER READER.

The Hendersonville Herald commends the Raleigh News and Observer for refusing to be intimidated by subscribers who disagree with that paper's policies. Recently the News and Observer received letters from certain subscribers who were ruffled because of the paper's criticism of Governor Kitchin and Senator Simmons, and these subscribers ordered their papers stopped. The Hendersonville Herald, like the News and Observer and all other honest, fearless newspapers, condemns the practice to which some people are addicted of attempting to bulldoze newspapers by cancelling their subscriptions whenever the papers criticize their friends or express opinions of which the subscribers do not approve. Such action should be condemned, but occurrences of this kind are too numerous in most newspaper offices to be given very serious consideration. The subscriber who gets mad and quits is likely to return to the newspaper in a few days or weeks or months; and if he does not, the opinion or incident which causes one subscriber to quit is likely to bring the paper another or a dozen or a score of subscribers. Therefore, the newspaper is never likely to be the loser in a case of this kind, while such incidents are unpleasant and the intolerance frequently manifested by subscribers is calculated to ruffle the feelings of the newspaper man.

The average man fondly imagines when he cancels his subscription to a newspaper that newspaper will immediately plunge into bankruptcy. He fancies that his support is absolutely essential to the continuance of the business and that the loss of a subscriber will stop the publication of the paper. He is not aware that in the average newspaper office cancellations of subscriptions are daily received and that they are merely passing incidents. If the newspaper is a going, growing proposition new subscriptions are also being received, and the man who quits receives only the briefest notice. No newspaper desires to lose a single subscriber, but sensible newspaper men realize the futility of trying to hold the irate subscriber, whose position probably is unreasonable and who will not even listen to reasonable and business-like conversation. The best course to pursue in a case of this kind is to let the subscriber quit, and stay quit until he cools off. Some newspapers give entirely too much attention to the offended and angry subscriber. The Telegram thinks the News and Observer did so when it "wrote up" two such subscribers and placed the article on the front page. The matter was of too little consequence to merit so much prominence.

Subscribers to newspapers come and go, they stop and start. All this is in the course of business and merits only the attention and the weight that ordinary business details receive. Anything in the nature of a boycott or an organized effort to destroy the circulation of a newspaper would, of course, have to be handled in a different manner; but the single mad subscriber, or the same multiplied several times, should be given ordinary business attention. When the irate subscriber finds that his course has not bankrupted the paper and that it continues to live and flourish, he will awaken to the fact that he made a fool of himself and will probably make amends by subscribing for the paper again.

Many people appear to think that the newspaper man will necessarily take their cancellation of a subscription as an affront, and they try all sorts of dodges to avoid his fancied ill will in such cases. There is no more reason why a newspaper man should occupy this attitude than that a merchant should do so when a prospective customer informs him that a certain article does not please and leaves his store without making a purchase.

No newspaper is able to please everybody; and there is no reason why those who are not pleased with a particular paper should continue to patronize it. Let them apply the rules of good business to the case, pay up and discontinue their subscriptions. Every newspaper wants all the subscribers it can possibly get, but the honest newspaper wants only satisfied subscribers. Satisfied subscribers are worth much to a paper; dissatisfied subscribers are a detriment to its progress.

The public should deal fairly with the newspapers and the newspapers should follow that policy in dealing with the public. This applies to all departments of the newspaper business. A newspaper, if it is properly conducted, is a business enterprise. The public should keep this in mind and remember that it is necessary in dealing with the newspaper to observe only the rules which govern the other lines of business. This will apply if the newspaper is conducted as a business enterprise. If it is not, better let it alone and give your business to a newspaper which is recognized as a business enterprise.

THE FREE ADVERTISING BURDEN.

The free advertising burden which the average newspaper in the small town or small city bears, is immense. In this respect the newspaper is made a packhorse for the community and it is generally worked to a finish. The Telegram has time and again stressed the fact that publishing a newspaper is a business enterprise; that honest newspapers have nothing but subscriptions and advertising space for sale, and that if they give away their stock in trade they are bound to fail as business enterprises and ultimately land in the bankruptcy court. Despite all that this newspaper has said, however, there are yet many people who almost daily ask The Telegram to give them what is for sale. These people would not think of asking the merchant or any other business man to give them the things offered for sale, but they apparently take it as a matter of course that the newspapers must do so and are mightily offended when asked to pay for what is clearly advertising or for papers.

This conditions of affairs which prevails in Greensboro is due to education, no doubt. The newspapers here have educated the people to expect free that for which they should pay. The newspapers are largely to blame, we believe, for this condition of affairs and the newspaper men responsible for it should bear the blame without making a kick, but it is rather hard on newspaper men who come to Greensboro and who have had nothing to do with the building up of a false and unbusiness-like sentiment and practice.

Right in line with The Telegram's views of these matters is the following from the Asheville Citizen:

"The Citizen is compelled by reason of the frequent demands made upon it for free space in exploiting church fairs, suppers, etc., to which an admission is scharged, to state that a charge is made for this sort of advertising as well as for regular commercial business.

"A newspaper has two sources of revenue, i. e., subscriptions and advertising. They constitute the publisher's sole stock in trade, and no paper can long exist which attempts to give away either papers or advertising space.

"The Citizen does not mean to convey the impression that this paper does not intend to champion in the future, as it has done in the past, any worthy cause in Asheville and western North Carolina. A newspaper is, however, a business enterprise, and to succeed must be conducted on business lines, and any but the most lax policy requires that all advertising matter be charged for as such."

Aviators are known as "bird men," but there are birds who are not aviators.

The Piedmont admits that "all roads lead through Greenville." That is probably the reason why most of the people pass by Greenville.

Admiral Togo has endorsed the movement for peace between the United States and Japan. Perhaps this will allay the fears of Hobson.

The popular term for male aviators is "bord men," and they have started to speaking of women aviators as "bird women." The women aviators are "peaches."

President Taft did not stop to count the cost of having an extra session of Congress on his hands when he called the present session. He probably figured that the Democrats would pass his reciprocity bill and immediately adjourn. He finds the Democrats determined to make some honest efforts for genuine tariff reform, and it looks very much like the President does not want that.

Mrs. Ethel Barrymore Colt and Mr. Ethel Barrymore Colt announce simultaneously that there will be no separation and that the reports of their marital troubles have been greatly exaggerated—in fact, said reports are characterized as being absolutely false in every particular. This story does not appear exactly right on its face, but the public will forgive the couple if there has been a little prevarication and wish them better luck in the future if they propose to "kiss and make up."

NEWSPAPER OPINION.

"What's the use of Greenville County, South Carolina, voting a bond issue to build a court house when South Carolina has a Governor who has pardoned or paroled 208 prisoners in the past few months?" impertinently asks the Greensboro Telegram. Didn't some of the counties in Tennessee build new court houses when Patterson was Governor?—Greenville, S. C., Piedmont.

We are printing at another place a very readable character sketch from the Charlotte Chronicle of "Cansler of Tirzah," the most unique politician of South Carolina. But does the Chronicle know that "Cansler of Tirzah," like most Americans who attain anything, from politics to baseball, was born in North Carolina? "Cansler of Tirzah," or "Jim Cansler," as we knew him, is a native of Catawba county, and carried to South Carolina some time in the early seventies a good drilling in Latin, Greek, mathematics and declamation from Catawba high school, then in palmiest days, under the management of Dr. J. C. Clapp and Major S. M. Finger.—Newton Enterprise.

The progress of towns and communities has been retarded more by the people who want things to remain like they were when Noah came out of the ark than by any other influence that can be mentioned. Until a person becomes possessed of a certain amount of pride in his town or community and of a willingness to put forth some effort toward making the section of country in which he lives look like something besides a last year's bird nest he isn't going to be worth much outside of providing a mere living for his immediate family.—Marshville Home.

PRINTERS' HEALTH.

Their International Union Prosecutes Its Campaign.

The volume containing the reports of the officers of the International Typographical Union for the fiscal year ending with May, 1911, is now in circulation.

The International Typographical Union has for years conducted a health campaign from its international headquarters, and working throug local committees. In his report this year President Lynch has this to say as to the progress of the campaign:

"Your president has continued the agitation during the past year for better sanitary conditions in the work-rooms where our members are compelled to labor. We have also continued the distribution of the tuberculosis pamphlet. As to sanitation and other work-room conditions, our local unions should continue to give these subjects attention. With the movement against filthy and non-ventilated composition rooms there will be entire sympathy on the part of the general public, and no employer can afford to resist the demand for a change in working conditions that will guarante health and comfort. As a matter of fact, well ventilated and scientifically arranged composing rooms are as good an investment as is the latest improvement in typesetting machinery, or the newest and most up-to-date faces in type. The worker who is in good health and who is working amid pleasant surroundings is the best kind of a worker, for botlr mentally and physically he is equipped to produce the best that his art knows. Good printing means allitional patronage for the printing office, and to a very great extent good printing requires artistic typesetting.

"All of our local unions should have health committees, and these committees should be untiring in their efforts to improve sanitary conditions and other features in composing rooms requiring betterment. Whenever a condition exists that requires improvement, if the employer fails to make the improvement on request of the health committee, then the bad condition should be called to the attention of the local board of health, and if the local board of health refuses to act, agitation should be started through pamphlets circulated liberally, and through the withdrawal of our members from employment in the composing room of the offending proprietor, if this last radical step is an absolute necessity.

"As I have repea tedly asserted, a higher wage scale is of no benefit to a member if the conditions under which he works make for the propagation of disease and early death. The family might better retain the provider and protector under a low wage scale than enjoy the fruits of a high wage scale for only a limited period, and then when husband and father is removed become subjects of the charity of the public, or of the union, or of fraternal societies."

President Lynch also touches on the great white plague, and says:

"Scientific research has proven that there is no known medicine that will cure consumption, and that it is a waste of time and money to use so-called 'consumption cures.' All advertised cures of this nature are frauds. Doctors who advertise should be avoided as much as medicine which are advertised. Reputable doctors do not advertise. When a person learns that he has consumption he should go at once to a physician or dispensary and do as he is advised. He he should not waste time or money on patent medicines. Advertised cures and advertised doctors are all worthless. This is the advice given by one of the most eminent physicians. Over $15,000,000 annually is poured into the coffers of those who exploit and advertise fake consumption cures, according to the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis; and for this vast sum the victims receive nothing in return, but are often permanently injured, and, in the majority of cases, cheated out of the chance for a real cure. Sanitary workrooms and an abundance of fresh air at all times are the best preventatives. These admonitions are being constantly proclaimed by the International Typographical Union through its traveling tuberculosis exhibit, its sanatorium at the Union Printers' Home, and by the annual distribution of thousands of pieces of literature."—Columbia State.

The Edict to the Arizonians.

Section four of article four of the Federal constitution decares the "The United States will guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government," and that is as far as the responsibility of the Union in respect to the organic laws of the States is expressed or implied.

In vetoing the bill for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico, because the proposed constitution of the former State includes a provision for the recall of judges, President Taft sets himself as a barrier to political progress. By this, we do not pretend to say that the recall provision is wise or expedient, but it is, at least, a question open to debate among thinking people. Some of us might hold that the election of judges by popular vote in South Carolina would be unwise and that a change in that direction would be revolutionary, but we would hardly be justified in suggesting that New York is unworthy of Statehood because its laws provide that method for their selection. With eqqual conscientiousness and cocksureness, the King and Parliament of England held in the 18th century that measures of self-government demanded by the American colonies were radical and visionary, and the President of the United States arrogates to himself exactly similar superiority of judgment.

Admitting that Arizona, once clothed with statehood, might adopt the recall, and that each and all of the 46 States now in existence may adopt it, the President, because it does not commend itself to his good opinion, condemns people of the territory to deprivation of statehood rights until they shall accept him as their infallible law-giver and advisor—this notwithstanding that they present ti him a Republican form of government.

Under the Federal constitution the President is protected in the privilege of oppressing the people of a territory and, in this case the President merely takes advantage of it. Whether the single provision of law which they favor and which he dislikes is good or bad, it is idle to argue that it is one affecting the essential definition of a republican form of government accepted in this country.

As we have already pointeed out, many of the States differ widely as to basic law. A President would go far in dangerous assumption to deny admission to a territory if its scheme of government included executive, legislative and judicial branches, those repositories of governmental power composing the foundation and framework of what we know in America as republican government. To say how the members of any branch shall be chosen or their services terminated is an entrance into detail never contemplated by the makers of the Federal constitution. If it had been, the Constitution would have prescribed limitations for thePresident's guidance. The point has already beenmade that in many States the power f recalling judges is lodged in State legislatures and, that being true, the President's objections to the recall are directed rather against the agency that may resort to it in Arizona than against the recall itself. It is a fair presumption that the President would have accepted the Arizona constitution had it made the recall a function of the Legislature, rather than of the people.

The language of article X of the Federal constitution is: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the State, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." Unquestionably, the power to refuse admission to a territory is delegated to the United States, and the best defense of the President's position is that he has exercised it with the object of hammering the people of Arizona into submission to his will. The inhabitants of a territory are without the rights of the citizens of sovereign State. In relation to them the President has certain imperial power. He is their Czar. Of that he reminds the Arizonian. Let them take it to heart.—Columbia State.

The Quaker Mob.

In the tranquil old Quaker town of Coatesville, Pa., a negro prisoner was recently seized by a mob and burned to death. Such incidents, no matter where they happen, are to be deplored and condemned. Anarchy never solved a problem or cured an ill.

This is a truism, as evident in Pennsylvania as in Georgia, but how many times has it been taken as a text in the North and the East for pharisaical sermons against the South! The fact that a negro has been lynched in a smug Quaker community in no sense condones similar outbreaks in this section. But it does go to prove that, given the same conditions in the North as in the South, the same result will follow.

When the Governor of Pennsylvania was notified of what had happened, he declared:

"These things happen occasionally in some of the most enlightened communities and it is a violation of the law which the authorities cannot anticipate and which, with a small force at their command, they are powerless to prevent.

This might have been as fitly spoken of like situations in the South. Here, as elsewhere, intelligent, conservative public sentiment condemns lynching. Yet, there have been times when, as the Governor of Pennsylvania says, the authorities could not anticipate what was about to take place and were powerless to prevent it. To be sure, the authorities should take every possible precaution under such conditions, and they should be held responsible for any failure to perform their full duty.

One of the conspicuous morals of the Coatesville episode, however, is this: That occasional mob violence is not confined to any one section of this country. Under certain circumstances, it occurs in the North and East as well as in the South, and the latter has too frequently been done brutal injustice by biased and unreflecting critics. After all, it is as David Harum remarked: "There is as much human nature in one of us as in another; and sometimes a little more."

Our common need, in such cases, is not partizan judgment or denunciation but a sympathetic and co-operative effort on the part of all good citizens everywhere to discountenance anarchy in every form and to uphold the reign of justice and law.—Atlanta Journal.

ONE MILLION NEW FARMS.

More Small Farms; Production in Last Decade Doubled.

Nearly 1,000,000 new farms have been created in the United States during the last ten years. In the last ten years the total number of farms increased 18 per cent. In the older States from Ohio eastward there has been going on for more than 20 years a tendency toward the amalgamation of farms distant from market into larger holdings. On the other hand, this section has witnessed the cutting up into smaller sizes of many farms nearer to market. There are now almost three times as many farms as in 1870, and an unprecedented increase in the value of farm lands, and live stock is the even more momentous fact revealed by this inquiry. The land in farms, with their buildings, improvements and live stock, is today almost $30,000,000,000, a gain of 44 per cent in ten years. Present values are two and one-half times the farm values of twenty years ago. In the north central States the increase in the value of farms is 43 per cent; in the south central States, 58 per cent; in the north Atlantic, 13 per cent, and in the south Atlantic, 34 per cent.

The value of farm production in 1909, according to this exhibit, shows an increase over ten years earlier of just about 100 per cent for the United States. The increase in ten years for north Atlantic States is 71 per cent; south Atlantic States, 57 per cent; north central, 96 per cent. This represents the fair worth of all crops and the other returns from the soil, including live stock produce and the increase of live stock born during the year. The farm products of the year just closed were worth almost four times as much as the product of 1889. Summarizing the results, conditions have changed. American agriculture must change with these conditions. Population is overtaking consumption. Even with this increase in quality and value of farm products the United States exported during 1909 a smaller quantity of agricultural produce in bulk than in 1900, although the value of such exports was $923,000,000, compared with $867,000,000 for 1907.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

TIZ-For Sore Feet

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet? Corns, Callouses or Bunions? Use TIZ. It's Sure, Quick And Certain.

You Will Enjoy Using TIZ. The Most Pleasant Remedy You Ever Tried and Moreover It Works.

At last here is instant relief and a lasting permanent remedy for sore feet. No more tired feet. No more aching feet. No more swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more corns. No more bunions. No more callouses, no matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use TIZ.

TIZ is totally unlike anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time its used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

NATIONAL HIGHWAY IN HONOR OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Strong Movement in Favor of Expending Money for Lincoln Memorial on Boulevard From Washington City to Gettysburg—Appropriation is $2,000,000.

(By VICTOR ELLIOTT,

Washington, Aug. 17.—A National boulevard extending from Washington to the battlefield of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, rather than a statue at the capital, is the plan now urgently proposed to honor the memory of Abraham Lincoln. Indications are that the fight between the national highway adherents and those who want a monument erected to Lincoln at the United States capital, will be a prolonged and bitter one.

Speaker Clark has lent the weight of his influence and opinion toward the highway idea. Congress has authorized an appropriation of $2,000,000 to build a permanent memorial to the martyred President, but the Fine Arts Commission is leaning toward a memorial in Washington rather than a national highway.

The law, infact, now provides that the Lincoln memorial shall be built in the District of Columbia, but there has been such a change of sentiment recently that Congress may be asked to amend the law so that a Washington-to-Gettysburg road may be built.

President Taft has assured the members of the Lincoln Highway Memorial Association that nothing will be done until both sides have had an opportunity to be heard.

Those who favor a national boulevard named after President Lincoln point out that the Washington monument would dwarf any memorial erected in Washington. The memory of the President of the stormy sixties, they say, deserves a more fitting and lasting tribute than can be obtained by the erection of another statue in Washington. The national capital is now crowded with statues to various heroes. Nearly every park and street corner contains a monument to the memory of some hero of peace or war.

At one end of the Mall stands the Washington monument, towering to a height of 555 feet. To place a smaller statue of Lincoln in this vicinity would mean that the latter would be dwarfed, and it is not deemed wise that there should be such a difference between the memorial to the man who made the union possible, and the man who had most to do with preserving it.

At the foot of the capitol and at the entrance to the Mall there is now in course of construction a monument to General Grant. In a way, this is an imposing piece of marble and stone, but it does not stand out in the bold relief given the monument to Washington. The Lincoln Highway Memorial Association will fight to see that the memorial to Lincoln is at least one that may favorably be compared to that of the "Father of His Country."

"At present," says Speaker Clark, "the law restricts the location of the memorial to the City of Washington. There are several sites suggested here, but if the law can be changed so that the memorial may go outside the District of Columbia, I am in favor of the Gettysburg road plan. This would be a mnument that would endure forever, and it would be a credit to the entire nation. Tourists coming to Washington would journey over it. I think that it would be peculiarly appropriate to erect a memorial of this character extending from the capital of the nation to the battlefield of Gettysburg."

Another plan which is also regarded favvorably, in event the statue idea may be abandoned, is to erect a great memorial bridge across the Potomac river. This bridge, sentimentally speaking, would be a physical connecting link between the North and the South, now united. Still anotherplan is to bunld a national roadway from Washington to Richmond, Va., the capital of the Confederacy. This road would have almost as deep a significance as the highway from Washington to Gettysburg, the battlefield where the long struggle between the North and the South was virtually decided, and where the future preservation of the Union was assured.

A delegation of the Washington-too-Gettysburg road advocates came to the White House a few days ago to urge President Taft to use his influence for a Lincoln memorial out of the ordinary run of monuments. They were asured by the President that it will probably be several months before the question is definitely decided. The magnitude of the project, and the fact that Congress without regard to sectional or party lines, voted an appropriation of two million dollars for a monument to Abraham Lincoln, is regarded as an assurance that in the end the greatest and most comprehensive memorial that can be obtained by this outlay of money will be turned over to posterity.

Representative Borland of Missouri, a member of the Lincoln Highway Memorial Association, says that estimates show that a national boulevard can be built at a cost of not more than $10,000 per mile. Granting that these figures are correct, the road from Washington to Gettysburg would cost about $750,000 for the actual work of construction, and there would be left for decorative purposes the sum of $1,250,000. With this latter amount two immense arches might be built at each terminus of the boulevard and historic peights along the route might be appropriately marked.

If the entire two million dollars should be spent for a monument in Washington, it is not thought possible to produce a design that would compare favorably with the Washington monument. Speaker Clark himself is said to believe that Washington already has its share of monuments and statues, of various shapes, designs and costs. It was the desire and intent of Congress to erect a memorial to Lincoln that will stand out prominent among all others, and it is declared that the highway idea has steadily gained favor since it was first proposed.

"We plan to start a nation-wide propaganda in favor of the Gettysburg road plan at once," said Representative Borland. "The campaign will be carried on largely through the Grand Army posts throughout the country. Before the designs for a monumental memorial have been submitted we hope to have so awakened public sentiment that the entire nation will favor our plan to erect a great national highway from the capital of the United States to the battlefield of Gettysburg."

Immediately following the adjournment of Congress officials of the Lincoln Memorial Highway Association will make a survey trip over the proposed route of the Lincoln boulevard. These officials include Secretary McCleary, General Hopkins and Col. McElroy of the G. A. R.

FIVE NEGROES SAVED FROM MOB.

Blacks Charged with Setting Fire to An Aged Ohioan.

Hamilton, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Only the greatest care by the policemen and sheriff's deputies saved five negroes from being taken out of the jail and strung up tonight.

Peter Hays, "Bad Bill" Johnstone, James Martin and two companions are charged with pouring oil over Abraham Haskins, aged 69 years, living at Glendale, and igniting it. He was so badly burned that both his legs may have to be amputated. There is faint hope of his recovery.

When the negroes were arrested a crowd threatened to lynch them.

WOMEN GET SEATS FIRST.

Men Protest Against "Invasion of Rights" in Gotham Cars.

New York, Aug. 17.—Unqqualified approval of the plan of Police Captain Burke to permit women to enter cars first, leaving the standing room for men, which was tried on three of the trolley loops in the rush hour at the Brooklyn bridge Monday night, is withheld by all concerned except the women.

Police Commissioner Waldo is looking up the law to determine if the police powers are sufficiently broad to permit the separation of passengers according to sex. Representatives of the Department of Bridges have expressed the opinion that the plan does not promise to work well, and William Seibert, superintendent of surface lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, is inclined to think that the scheme will increase rather than decrease the troubles of the rush hour.

Objection to the innovation on the part of the men who find every seat preempted is almost unanimous. One man who had to stand for three miles Monday night because the women had the seats called today at the office of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to protest.

"My constitutional rights have been invaded," he told Mr. Seibert. "This plan is an unlawful discrimination in favor of the women. You may give them the ballot if you want to, but when I pay my nickel you have no right to say my money isn't as good as a woman's. If this segregation is not stopped at once I will carry my fight through all the courts in the land."

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

VICTORY FOR LAW ON INHERITANCE TAX.

Minnesota Railroad Will Bare Holdings of Harriman, Sage and Others.

St. Paul., Aug. 17.—Recognizing the validity of the law passed by the last legislature placing the collection of inheritance tax in the hands of the attorney general and vesting him with the authority to compel individuals and corporations to produce whatever books and papers he may require, the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway has notified Attorney General Simpson that it will answer the summons in the district court August 19 and produce its books showing its stock ownership.

Mr. Simpson recently summoned the railroad to show what stock Charles Merrill, a wealthy New Yorker, owned in the road. Mr. Merrill died about three years ago.

The effect is looked upon as of vast importance, as it will enable the attorney general to determine not only the Merrill ownership of stock, but will show what E. H. Harriman, Russell Sage and other wealthy men held.

MRS. BELVA LOCKWOOD TO FLY.

Will Soar at College Park When Agent is Ready.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Belva Lockwood, original woman lawyer of the District, one-time candidate for President of the United States and well known suffragette, has consented to fly in an aeroplane.

Mrs. Lockwood was asked to fly at College Park by the agent of an aeroplane manufacturer who saw the advertising advantages of the exploit. She tried a flight when she was ten years old with two umbrellas, but it was hardly successful. She is now waiting for the agent to notify her of the time for the proposed flight.

"Mary," said her father, "I hope you won't encourage young Twillim in his attentions. I fear he is too easy-going."

"Oh, father, he isn't easy-going at all. I yawned a dozen times last night before he took the hint."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

WILEY STILL BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

Washington, Aug. 17.—Before the House committee today Dr. Wiley continued his defense. He asserted that Secretary Wilson knew of all details concerning the employment of Dr. Rusby. He was asked by Representative Sloan if he could supply a list of the food prosecutions that had been abandoned by Solicitor McCabe because of his hostility to Dr. Wiley. The witness stated that he would supply list.

RECIPROCITY BY NOVEMBER.

Laurier Predicts Early Adoption of the Policy in Canada.

Simcoe, Ont., Aug. 17.—Predicting that the Liberal party will be returned to power that by November the reciprocity agreement with the United States will have been ratified, Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened his speech-making campaign here today before a large crowd, although this is considered a Conservative stronghold. Sir Wilfrid confined himself entirely to reciprocity.

For 40 years, he said, the policy of reciprocity had received the indorsement and strong support of the men at the head of the Canadian government. It had been the goal of the Liberals and Conservatives both, he said, but the Conservative party of today has turned its back upon its former leaders.

The government believed that between Canada and the United States freer trade in natural products would be of great benefit to both countries, but more beneficial to Canada because of the smaller market. Sir John McDonald in 1868 had endeavored to secure reciprocity, but it was refused and the tariff wall had been raised and raised until the Payne-Aldrich tariff law reached the prohibitive stage and made it impossible for Canada to trade with the United States on fair conditions.

Sir Wilfrid ridiculed talk of annexation. Some men in the United States may want it, he said, but there are men in Canada who do not want it.

"Annexation talk is beneath the attention of the Canadian people. Peace, harmony and concord between Canada and the United States have been firmly established," said Sir Wilfrid in conclusion, "and the people are at the dawn of a new era. They have learned that blood is thicker than water. Far-reaching as the present agreement is, I have visions of another in a few years which will be another step toward that higher civilization which is coming in the political world."

Shubert Company Reincorporates.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 17.—The Shubert Theatrical Company was incorporated here today with an authorized capital of $1,800,000. The incorporators are William Klien, Charles A. Bird and Joseph W. Jacobs, all of New York.

The charter indicates that the corporation is to take over all the property and business of the New York company operating under the same name.

SENATORS DODGE "MOVIE" MAN.

Patrons of Nickel Theaters Won't See Our Solons in Action.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—A moving picture camera was placed at the entrance of the Senate office building to snap the swinging step and spry action of Senators as they emerged. Instead it threw the statesmen into a panic.

Senator Martin, stout and pudgy, was the first to come within range. Being a Confederate veteran, he did not wince, but walked right up to the cannon's mouth. Mr. Chilton was the next to appear. Mr. Martin warned him and he bobbed about so much that the effect was spoiled. Senators Smith of South Carolina, and Williams came along together. They did not have on their best clothes, so held up their hands and made a blur. As other Senators came forth they were given notice and all side-stepped.

SOL PRITCHETT IS HELD FOR COURT ON MURDER CHARGE

Placed in Jail Without Bond by Judge Eure This Morning—Pool Room Manager Fined $10 and Costs for Allowing Minors to Patronize Place of Business.

The session of Municipal court this morning attracted a large number of the curious and interested for the docket, which though composed of only two cases was important in that the negro murderer Sol Pritchett, appeared for the preliminary hearing against him charging him with killing a negress on July 25. At the conclusion of the taking of evidence, the result, as predicted, was that Pritchett was bound over for trial in Superior Court without the privilege of bond.

Pritchett is a young and strong negro, and bears a good face, such as would not be expected on an assassin who commits a crime so cruel as the shooting of Nannie Mines. Sol occupied the prisoners' bench in the court room with apparent indifference and unconcern. He was represented by S. Glenn Hudson as attorney. When the warrant charging him with the murder of Nannie Mines was read, Pritchett promptly pleaded not guilty.

The State introduced five witnesses whose convicting testimony was not refuted by the defense, who furnished no evidence, contesting only several of the minor details of the shooting and reserving the real legal battle in the case to take place before the jury of Superior court. John Macauley, Kaiser Massey, Ida Blunt and Maud Clymer, all negroes who were present at the home of the Mines woman on Gilmer street on the night of July 25 when the shooting occurred, presented the case to the court, telling of the circumstances of the killing.

The boys, Macauley and Massey, were both eye-witnesses of the tragedy and both saw the entire act when Pritchett snatched a shot gun from its hanging place on the wall and sent a heavy discharge crashing through her brain from a distance of less than ten yards. The testimony of the two corroborated exactly. They stated that they were at the scene of the shooting about 11:30 o'clock on that night and Sol and his victim were sitting together on the bed, for a long time talking and laughing pleasantly. The two had long considered each other as sweethearts. They presently began quarreling, however, concerning another women whom Nannie alleged Sol had taken with him to Danville and had otherwise been two intimate with. The man denied the statement, but the woman insisted and said she was going to leave him and return to her home and parents.

Pritchett then threatened her, saying, "If you leave this house, I'll shoot you" Nannie walked unconcernedly to the door, and the next moment was lying in the corner of the room with a portion of her brain shot away and plastered with her hair into the wall at her side, for Pritchett had shot quickly with the gun, without even raising it to his shoulder and the entire load centered in the side of the head of his victim. Sol left immediately and neither of the witnesses, who went for a doctor, had seen him since the shooting until his appearance in the court room.

According to the testimony of the two negro girls, Ida Blunt and Maud Clymer, they were asleep in another room of the house and were awakened by the death-shot. Both sprang to the aid of the injured girl, who was soon carried to the hospital and died there on the evening of the second day without regaining consciousness, or knowing by what means or instrument she was killed. The Blunt woman had also seen the dead body as it was lying at McNeil's undertaking shop. With the testimony of Policeman R. Y. Skeenes, who reached the scene of the shooting within a few minutes after the escape of the murderer and who brought him to this city yesterday morning from Cumberland, Md., where he was captured, and his identification of the negro the state rested the case. The defense followed this example and Judge Eure announced his judgment that even if the testimony showed only manslaughter he would bind the prisoner over without bail, as otherwise it would be much too heavy for the negro to pay.

Will Eagle, proprietor of the Guilford pool room, where the serious cutting affray between Frank Hudson and Will Busick on Tuesday night had its beginning, was charged with allowing minors under 18 years of age to enter the pool room. The testimony brought out by the father and several acquaintances of Young Busick showed that he frequented the place at all hours, and though repeatedly declaring to the conductors of the room that he was over the age limit of 18 years, he in reality has not yet passed his 16th birthday. On account of the small size of some of the frequenters of the room and their youthful appearance, Judge Eure ruled that he could not accept simply the fact that Eagle had taken the word of Busick and allowed him entrance to the room. The punishment was a fine of $10 and the costs, and though Eagle first gave notice of appeal, on further consideration he paid the fine.

George Evans, a white man who was yesterday fined $7.50 and the costs for being drunk and down, had the fine changed to a labor sentence. The court sent him to work the roads of Guilford county for 20 days with the privilege of release whenever his friends could furnish the money. Judge Eure made the ruling sending the man to the roads of the county instead of to the streets of the city in compliance with a request from Commissioner Foushee that for a short time he would prefer that the steady stream of new recruits to his street laboring gang be diminished somewhat, as he did not have accommodations for a larger number of convicts. Thirty-two men are now on the streets and they are doing good work, but the county needs men and accordingly for the time being only men with long terms shall be sent to the streets, those with sentences of a few days going to the county camp.

TODAY'S WORK IN THE HOUSE AND SENATE

Washington, August 17.—The House after a lengthy argument concerning the unanimous leave to extend remarks in the Congressional Record resumed consideration of the free list bill, together with the Senate amendments. Representative Underwood called the measure up. A discussion arose as to the Kern amendment, providing for protective duty on meats, flour, breadstuffs and lemons.

The Senate resumed consideration of the cotton revision bill. Senator Bacon, of Georgia, reported the Democratic caucus agreement respecting the Iron, Steel and Chemical schedules. Senator Overman, North Carolina, urged a reduction in tariff on chemicals and protested vigorously against a revenue only tariff on cotton importations.

President Taft today called an early session of the cabinet to go over the final draft of his wool bill veto. The veto will go to Congress this afternoon or tomorrow.

Senator Smith today submitted a surprise Statehood bill, which President Taft has said he would sign. The bill omits the recall of the judiciary clause. An effort will be made to get the bill through this session.

Lee County Sheriff Returns From Mississippi With Prisoner.

Sanford, Aug. 17.—Sheriff C. G. Petty has returned from Laural, Miss., where he went Saturday morning after L. C. Freeman, who skipped bail in a case of highway robbery of George Phillips more than a year ago, which act was committed in Greenwood township in February, 1910. Freeman was arrested in Laurel, Miss., last week by a deputy sheriff there upon suspicion and held until Sheriff Petty could arrive. Heck Fore, an accomplice in this robbery, was tried at last term of Lee superior court and sentenced to 4 years in the pen. Freeman has been landed in jail and bond increased from $200 to $1,000. He will probably remain in jail till November court.

The Country Heard From.

Editor Greensboro Telegram:

I notice in your issue of 13th, you have a few words to say in regard to the hitching lot at Greensboro being abolished. What are the poor farmers of Guilford county going to do? They have no automobiles to ride in and are not able to get them. It seems to me that the City of Greensboro has it in for the farmers of Guilford good and deep and getting it deeper, if there is any way to do it. The farmers of Guilford should boycott the Beautiful City of Greensboro. The City of Greensboro seems to be boycotting the farmers.

Where will the inspection business stop? Meat has to be inspected twice before it can be offered for sale, and there is no end to the strings on selling butter and milk; guess the ground will have to be inspected next where we grow our produce; the hens that lay eggs that are sold in the Beautiful City will next have to have the attention of the inspector.

Greensboro is getting control of the county fast. I look for them to go before the next Legislature and have a bill passed allowing them control of the entire county.

Wonder if the Beautiful City will allow the farmers of the county to take their tobacco to town in wagons this fall; guess they will if they promise to unhitch right quick and get horses out of town so that there will be no danger of spreading disease.

My advice to the farmers of Guilford county is to take your tobacco, hogs and cattle, etc., to other markets as far as possible until Greensboro can show us some disposition to treat us better than they are doing at this time.

You rich farmers of course that have airships or autos go to the Beautiful City.

We are getting poor encouragement to raise cattle and hogs so that we can improve our land.

It won't take many more assessments in Guilford to put the poor farmer out of commission any way if the tax rate is not lowered, and new political jobs are not soon stopped.

Would be glad to hear from some good farmer through your columns on this subject.

FLEMING SAYS WIFE IS NOT FIT TO RAISE CHILDREN

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—Chief Justice Walter Clark began hearing the habeas corpus proceedings of Mrs. Percy B. Fleming against her husband this morning for the custody of their two children. In answering the complaint of his wife that Fleming is not a fit person to have children, he admitted his unfitness, but claims he has properly provided for them in the care of his brother in Louisburg, A. H. Fleming. He makes reply further that his wife is unfit to have the children because of misconduct and intimacy with other men. He pleaded he was worth $10,000 and that her extravagancies have made him insolvent.

He specified intimacies of his wife with M. W. Tyree and John Winder at different times. Mrs. Fleming, he asserted, was driven to the Tryee studio at night, remaining until midnight, Fleming being out of the city. As to the John Winder instance, she was driven to the Caraleigh Phosphate Works in Robert Dawkins hack, where John Winder took her in his buggy and drove away the hackman waiting for them. Robert Dawkins, hackman, was first witness. The taking of evidence is now in progress.

THACKER & BROCKMANN

POLICE CHIEF IS SHOT AND KILLED BY BLIND TIGER

Williamston, Aug. 17.—What is the most dastardly crime in the history of Williamston took place Tuesday night about 9 o'clock on Main street, when Capt. W. R. White, the chief of police of the city, was shot to death, he dying one hour after.

Chief White was on his way to his residence, which is on Main street, and when he was in front of the residence of Mr. Wheeler Martin he was shot down by a man whom the chief stated was of large stature. Twelve to fifteen buckshot entered his side, coming out through the abdomen and tearing the intestines.

The gun which was found was said to be that of the suspected negro's brother.

Immediately after the shooting a negro man of large size was seen by Mr. C. B. Hassell, who lives on the corner of Main and Watts streets, running in the direction of East Williamston.

As soon as the report was given that Chief White had been shot the sheriff and his deputies made a search and tracks of a very large foot were found and the house of the suspected man was visited. On the arrival of the searching party, before any one had said a word, the wife of the negro said don't shoot my husband.

Brad Bagley, the negro suspected, was at once arrested and carried to jail. His clothing corresponded with that worn by the man who was seen running by Mr. Hassell, and his shoes were then taken, and they fitted exactly the tracks which had been found.

Chief White died a very easy death, saying he was not afraid to die; that he had done his duty and felt that everything was all right with him. He had made a very efficient officer, and especially in his effort to execute the prohibition law, the negro who shot him figuring as a blind tiger. He leaves a wife and several children who have the sympathy of the community.

When it was known that the chief was dead the crowd gathered about the jail but made no special demonstration, and though excitement was at fever pitch no effort was made last night to storm the jail.

Yesterday, however, knots of people gathered on the street corners and lynching talk was heard. Sheriff Crawford thought it wise to add a man to the guard on duty at the jail. This man was armed with a shotgun and ordered to keep any one from entering the jail.

W. R. White had been chief of police of Williamston for the last three years and had proved himself an able, efficient and conscientious officer. He was extremely popular in Williamston. He is survived by his widow and four children.

Bagley was a giant negro, standing 6 feet 3 inches and weighing about 290 pounds. He had a reputation for being a "bad nigger" though his offenses have hitherto been of a minor character. He has made no statement since the shooting.

Stubborn Case

"I was under the treatment of two doctors," writes Mrs. R. L. Phillips, of Indian Valley, Va., "and they pronounced my case a very stubborn one, of womanly weakness. I was not able to sit up, when I commenced to take Cardui.

I used it about one week, before I saw much change. Now, the severe pain, that had been in my side for years, has gone, and I don't suffer at all. I am feeling better than in a long time, and cannot speak too highly of Cardui."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

If you are one of those ailing women who suffer from any of the troubles so common to women.

Cardui is a builder of womanly strength. Composed of purely vegetable ingredients, it acts quickly on the womanly system, building up womanly strength, toning up the womanly nerves, and regulating the womanly system. Cardui has been in successful use for more than 50 years. Thousands of ladies have written to tell of the benefit they received from it. Try it for your troubles. Begin today.

For Home Wear

Simple Home Dress—The simplicity of this dress makes it very attractive for morning wear; it is a style that may be carried out in cashmere, alpaca, linen or casement cloth. The skirt is quite plain and is not more than two yards round foot. The bodice opens in front; it has a vest of tucked muslin and two wide tucks each side. The collar and cuffs are faced with plaid silk or zephyr according to the material used for the dress; they are edged with a narrow pleating.

Materials required: 5 yards 44 inches wide, ⅛ yard tucked muslin, ⅝ yard plaid 22 inches wide.

Dressing Gown—The material suitable for such a gown as this are numerous; for present wear, fine flannel, Viyella or cashmere are suitable. It is cut like a long coat slightly fitted in at back and sides and has wide bell sleeves; bands of Paisley patterned silk trim the collar, sleeves and front. A large bow of ribbon forms a further trimmings for those who care for elaboration.

Materials required: 5 yards 44 inches wide.

IT LENDS TO DECORATION

Woodwork, in Bedroom Particularly, Repays Skill and Time Spent in Making It Appropriate.

Beautiful woodwork is as important in a bedroom as in the dwelling rooms of the house, but its character is entirely different. Where the wood is left in its natural state, finished only with a coat of wax or lacquer, or with a light stain that changes the tint without disguising the character of the wood, it should be light and fine-grained, if possible, like birch, maple or cherry. Pine is best when enameled in pure white or an ivory tone, and so treated will be charmingly effective in a great number of color combinations. Maple stained to a silver gray like the color of a hornet's nest is one of the very prettiest woods for a bedroom, and shows to advantage in both woodwork and furniture. Mahogany furniture is beautiful in a room planned to contrast well with it, but it is best used for furniture alone, as it is rather too full of color for the woodwork. An almost universally satisfactory treatment for the walls is to have the head casings of the doors and windows carried all around the rooms as a frieze rail, and slender upright partitions of wood so placed between the frieze rail and baseboard so as to divide the wall spaces into compartments or panels. This structural division allows wide variations in the decoration of the walls. The frieze may either be plain and exactly like the ceiling with a decided contrast showing in the panels below, or it may be in a color contrasting with both and forming a connecting link between the two.

COAT FOR GIRL.

This is a smart little coat for girl, and might be made in any kind of cloth or linen; it has the left side of front cut in a slant from the shoulder downwards; large buttons are sewn on only for ornament, as invisible hooks and eyes or press studs form fastening; the coat is otherwise quite plain.

Hat of soft silk, rawn into a satin band and trimmed with rosettes of the same.

Materials required: Two yards 48 inches wide, half dozen buttons, two yards sateen for lining.

BAMBOO FOR SUMMER HOMES

Light and Serviceable Material Is Now Employed Whenever It Can Be Utilized.

Wood-brown bamboo, woven into all sorts of pretty and useful shapes for the adornment of summer house and veranda, occupies a conspicuous place in oriental stores these days.

We are all more or less acquainted with the possibilities of the Japanese and Chinese tree, but certainly we never see it to better advantage than in the queer articles which decorate summer rooms so prettily.

Flower vases are among the most popular of the bamboo developments. They come in a variety of shapes, the most effective being the earthenware shapes we are accustomed to associate with Mexico or the Indians.

Inside are sheet iron or metal receptacles to hold the water. Most any flower would show to advantage against the dull brown of the bamboo.

Oval and rectangular ferneries of bamboo are attractive.

Flat tea trays of bamboo are light and effective, especially when the table is laid on the veranda. Hanging baskets in every conceivable shape swing from pliant bamboo cords.

BROCADES IN HIGH FAVOR

Makers and Designers Return to Bygone Age for Material and Fabric.

As the fashions seem to have gone back nearly a century in line and general effect, so have the makers and designers returned to a bygone age for material and fabric. Brocades are in high favor for formal evening dresses at present and lend themselves well to the quaint high-waisted effects and straight, narrow skirts which are now the mode.

Black and gold combinations, which are perhaps the favorite of the brocades, are extremely beautiful. Ivory white with pastel pink and corn color are also lovely, the soft pastel shades being particularly dainty. But in addition to those are the brilliant empire greens, East Indian yellows, brilliant blues, deep amethyst and black.

The beauty of the texture of these fabrics and the perfection of the dye, together with the large, though somewhat conventional patterns, result in wonderfully attractive fabrics.

Favored Colors in Parasols.

The colors that have proved great favorites in parasol lines, says the Dry Goods Economist, are coral, cerise, American beauty red, empire green, king's blue and the purple and violet shades. The run on empire and hunter's green has been enormous, both in the parasols in solid color and in the combinations with black and black and white. Coral was exceedingly strong early in the season and continues good, but American beauty red has been gaining on it, and the purples are becoming stronger and stronger.

A Year of Individuality.

The versatility of millinery is its charm this season, says a London paper. Individual taste must be pleased with the variety offered on all sides. Some of the latest novelties in millinery are insufficiently original and varied to warrant the assertion that all types of faces can be fitted with some form of headgear which offers a distinct touch of novelty either in its trimming or shape.

MARION IN MEXICO

BY TEMPLE BAILEY

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"That's all nonsense," said McHenry, as Gloria came back from the kitchenette with the oysters in a quaint blue bowl.

"What is nonsense?" she inquired.

"That you and Marion won't be friends. You are both so perfect—you think alike and talk alike."

"Do we?" she asked. "How long have you known Marion?"

"Three years."

"And in the three years you have been together four weeks. The rest of your knowledge of her comes from her letters. Does she write letters like mine?"

He threw back his head and laughed. "Your letters?" he reflected. "Did you ever write more than four lines to me?"

She smiled as she bent over the bubbling cream in the chafing dish. As he watched her stir it he thought that tomorrow he would be on the cars and that there would be no brown head within his line of vision.

"I wonder if Marion can cook oysters as you do?" he said, suddenly.

For answer she handed him a toasting fork. "Make yourself useful, you are so lazy."

Somewhat awkwardly he got down on the hearth rug.

"Am I lazy?" he questioned, looking up at her, "or is it increasing avoirdupois?"

"Both," wickedly, "and you must reform."

"Why?"

"Marion will want you to dance and to ride while you are in Mexico, and when she comes north she will golf and play tennis and you will roam with her over the links by day and glide over polished floor by night."

He laid down his fork and forgot the toast. "Will I have to do all of those things?"

"Why not? She is young. She loves the pleasures of youth."

"But you—you don't care for them."

"I am not young" briefly.

"You are younger than I am—"

"Oh, well," significantly.

He started to say something, then finished the toast.

"Have you any more uncomfortable things to say?" he demanded.

"Uncomfortable?" her eyebrows went up. "Have I said anything uncomfortable?"

"He Followed Her."

"That I am old and fat and lazy."

She gave the oysters a final stir. "You are too literal. I have only been telling you that you must not deprive your young wife of the things she loves."

"She is not my young wife."

"She is going to be."

"If she will have me, always remember that, please, if she will have me."

"It is your province to make her have you. You only have to put your mind to it. You've got it in you to make any woman care for you."

He turned her remark over in his mind; then he gasped and stood up. "Gloria, you don't mean—"

She interrupted him hurriedly. "The coffee's ready, and if I don't serve these oysters they will be cooked to death."

But he was still staring at her. "I wonder—" he murmured.

She arranged two thin wedges of toast symmetrically on a plate, heaped the oysters on them, and handed them to him.

He ate in silence for a moment and then returned to the attack. "Do you think I could make any woman love me, Gloria?"

"You heard my opinion, I don't know that I need repeat it," sedately. "You've always had your own way—and you'll get it now. Marion has probably flirted with a half dozen swarthy suitors this winter, but the fact that she keeps up her correspondence with you shows that she still has an interest in you. And you are good-looking, and rich—"

"Do you think me good-looking?" he interposed.

Over the top of the percolator she surveyed him seriously.

"Your eyes aren't my favorite color—I like brown better than gray, and I wish you would brush your hair straight back from your forehead instead of parting it in that old-fashioned way. But your chin is strong, and you have a nice voice. Yes, I think on the whole Marion will succumb."

He came back to himself with a start. "Marion? Oh, yes. But, you—Gloria—"

"You've made me forget the celery and the pickles," she told him severely, "with your chatter about Marion and Mexico." And away she went to the refrigerator in the kitchenette.

He followed her. "There isn't any water, either, let me lift those bottles for you."

But he did it abstractedly, and stood, one big bottle in each hand, staring at her while she dug out the pickles with a long fork.

"I shall miss my evenings with you, Gloria—"

"Of course you will," she said briskly.

"Marion won't cook oysters for you, but you can eat fruit by moonlight, which is much more romantic—you remember in her last letter she said that she was getting to be half vegetarian?"

As she speared the last pickle she glanced up to catch the blank expression of his face.

"Vegetarian," he said helplessly, "but look here, Gloria, you know—I like this sort of thing—the cozy little rooms and the chafing dish—and your coffee—and by jove," his face was suddenly illumined, "and you, Gloria."

"Don't drop those water bottles," she cried, and fled back to the dining room, whence he followed her, expostulating.

"You won't let me be sentimental."

"I?" She caught her breathh quickly. "Why should I let you be sentimental?"

"Because"—his words tumbled over each other—"until you said just now that I could make any woman love me, I didn't dream that I would have any chance with you. You seemed so absorbed in other things—so far above you—you are the only woman my heart has ever knelt to, Gloria. You seemed so fine—so remote—and the only times we have ever unbent have been on such evenings as this, when for a little while you have come down to my human level, but otherwise you have always been a goddess on a pedestal. And I never thought of asking you to marry me, because it seemed preposterous that you could care for a lazy fellow like me. So when Marion drifted into my life—you know how young and pretty she is—and I yearned for a home, I just picked her out as the best I could find. But do you think I would have looked at anyone else if I had thought that you—"

There could be no doubt of his earnestness. His face was white, and his voice broke as he rounded out his little speech. "Think of it," he said, "if I had gone to Mexico tomorrow, and had missed you—"

She was very pale, but her eyes were like stars as across the table she held out her hand to him. "I know, my dear," she said softly, "and that is why I spoiled your trip to Mexico."

HOW NICKNAME ORIGINATED

When Dutchman Is Stopped From Entering House He Tells Doorman He Is an Alligator.

Makers of the laws are accustomed to finding themselves likened to divers species of the "lower animals" in times of political excitement, and at all times among the cartoonists and newspaper wits; but perhaps nowhere else has so remarkable a term been applied to the legislator as one noted and explained in "The Old Virginia Gentleman," by George W. Bagby.

For many years the members of the Virginia house of delegates were nicknamed "Alligators." The origin of the term is said to be this:

An uncouth, roughly dressed Dutchman one day attempted to make his way into the hall, but was met by the doorkeeper with the query, 'What do you want?"

"I vants to go in dere."

"Whom do you want to see?"

"I don't vants to see nobody; I vants to go in."

"You can't go in, sir. The house is in session, and it is against the rules. If you want to see any member, I will call him out."

"I vants to go in," persisted the Dutchman.

"I tell you again, you can't go in!" retorted the doorkeeper, angrily.

"But I ish a Alligator."

"A what?" cried the puzzled doorkeeper.

"I ish a Alligator mineself."

"What did you say—a alligator?" The doorkeeper stared in amazement.

"Yaw!" roared the now excited Dutchman. "I ish one o' dem Alligators from the County of Vit!"

A light dawned on the doorkeeper's mind.

"Now I understand you!" he exclaimed. "You are a delegate from the County of Wythe. Walk in, sir."

Ever since the term "Alligator" has been a household word in Virginia.—Youth's Companion.

The Finishing Touch.

Crossklein lettered a card and hung it out front: "We Keep the Best of Everything."

Some wag penciled beneath:

Every Dollar of an Ad-Reader's Money is Above Par!

Frequently Its Buying Power Is Actually Doubled!

YOUR DOLLARS vary in value as they vary in purchasing power. The man or woman who studies advertisements is able, frequently, to make one dollar do the usual work of two.

And the experienced reader of advertisements will always make a dollar command a premium—make it buy more than a dollar's worth, as figured on "ruling prices" of things.

How much "above par" are the dollars in your pocket worth? It will depend on how closely you study the buying opportunities outlined in the store ads.

SKUNK TIES UP TROLLEY ROAD.

Asleep on Track, Derails Car—Passengers Shaken; Wires Down.

Westbrook, Conn., Aug. 17.—A skunk, asleep on the tracks, is held responsible for the partial derailing of a shore line trolley car here early today, tying up traffic for a couple or hours.

When the car struck the skunk the forward trucks left the rails and the car ran into a trolley pole, bringing down the feed wires, which caused a suspension of all traffic on the line. The passengers all escaped with a severe shaking up.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guess work in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for la-grippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

SPANK CARUSO, COURT SAYS.

Youthful Relative of Tenor Sentenced for Stoning Wagon.

Montclair, N. J., Aug 17.—Riccirdo Caruso, 13-year-old son of a cousin of Enrico Caruso, the famous tenor, was sentenced today to be spanked by his father, by Acting Recorder Weller. Caruso and other lads were charged with having stoned a farmer's wagon. Neighbors reported that when Riccardo's father obeyed the Recorder his son's voice reached heights that the greater Caruso never reached.

EVEN THE ARCTIC SWELTERS.

No Ice Left in the Bering Sea or on the Coast of Alaska.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—The revenue cutter fleet in Bering Sea reports that the unusual heat of the last few weeks has been felt in the Arctic.

The flagship Bear, sailing homeward aftr a three months' cruise of approximately 10,000 miles, reported by wireless today that there is no ice in Bering Sea nor along the shores of Alaska or Siberia. Such a condition has not been observed for several years.

FINED FOR SPANKING HER SON.

State Law Supreme Over a Mother's Parental Ruling.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 17.—For spanking her 5-year-old son with her bare hand on his bare skin, Mrs. Baker Seabright was fined $5 and costs today. The family had been at a lawn party and when they went home the boy refused to go in saying he wanted to go back for ice cream and cake. Becoming rebellious, he was partly, stripped of clothing and vigorously spanked by the mother. His wails aroused the neighbors, including a policeman, who rushed into the street and restored order among the screaming women and quarreling men.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, saltrheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. HOW TO CURE ECZEMA. ITCH AND ALL SKIN DISEASES

Don't suffer a moment longer with Eczema, or any form of skin or blood troubles. Don't scratch or rub the skin. Just apply Hancock Sulphur Compound to the affected spots and it will stop the itching at once, and cure the trouble permanently. One 50c bottle will cure that prevalent trouble, Common Itch. Nothing cures skin troubles so quickly as Hancock Sulphur Compound. To beautify the complexion and remove black heads and pimples, use Hancock Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Garst, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek, it would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of a cancerous nature.. I used different preparations, but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." FAST GAME AT CONE PARK WON BY THE PATRIOTS

The last game of the series with Greenville came to the Patriots yesterday by a score of 4 to 1. Watson and Eldridge were the opposing pitchers, each man allowing one earned run. The Patriots made three others but they were due in large measure to errors in center field, where Bussey was playing as a substitute for S. Doak, of the Greenville team.

Greenville's one run was a home run by Dick Smith, who lifted the ball clear of the fence by several feet. It was about the prettiest drive ever made in the park. Three of Greensboro's runs were made early in the game on hits by Clapp, Doak and Rickard and two muffs by Bussey and a bad throw by Kite. The last run was made in the fourth and was the result of a double by Carroll and a single by Eldridge.

Carroll and Doyle did some good fielding for the locals. Eldridge was in good form and struck out seven men.

The game was only an hour long and is said to be the fastest full game ever played in the league.

Loss of Time Means Loss of Pay.

Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little Penna St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ills. Howard Gardner.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL
Health Is Worth Saving, and Some Greensboro People Know How to Save It.

Many Greensboro people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when most all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly relieved by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

F. S. Miles, Main St., Reidsville, N. C., says: "I am a strong believer in Doan's Kidney Pills, having used two boxes of this remedy. The results were very satisfactory and consequently, I feel justified in advising other kidney sufferers to give this preparation a trial."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

JUNIORS WILL HEAR FINE REPORTS AT STATE MEETING

The annual meeting of the Junior Order United American Mechanics will be held this year in Asheville, beginning August 22. State Secretary Sam F. Vance, of Winston-Salem, has completed his report, showing, among other things, a net gain of 36 councils in the State during the year. There are 307 councils in the State. The Winston Sentinel gives the following interesting features taken from the Secretary's report:

The membership last year was 25,553, while the various reports submitted this year show the membership to be 26,854, or an increase in membership of 1,301. This gain is about one-half of what the average gain has been for the past several years, and the small gain this year is attributed to the new rituals which have come into vogue this year.

Secretary Vance calls attention of the members in his report to the fact that out of the sixty cents per capita paid by the members the National Council gets 48 cents of the amount, while the State council gets twelve cents per capita to pay its expenses. He states further that it has required the strictest economy possible in order to accumulate the assets, amounting in all to $28,307.22, which the council now possesses.

The report shows the condition of the councils by counties in the State, Guilford county leading in membership, Forsyth coming second; Wake, third, and Rowan, fourth.

The number of councils and the membership in the surrounding counties are given as follows:

Davidson—Councils, 6; membership, 769.

Davie—Councils, 3; membership, 283.

Guilford—Councils, 13; membership, 2,467.

Rockingham—Councils, 8; membership, 917.

Randolph—Councils, 17; membership, 1,097.

Rowan—Councils, 14; membership 1,536.

Stokes—Councils, 6; membership, 463.

Surry—Councils, 7; membership, 475.

Yadkin—Councils, 2; membership, 60.

Forsyth county has more members in proportion to the number of councils than any county in the State. There are 10 councils with a membership of 1,978, making an average of 197 8-10 to a council.

The councils and the number of members in each for Forsyth county are given below:

No. 3, Liberty, 275; No. 14, Salem, 251; No. 19, Fairview, 294; No. 20, Centerville, 297; No. 30, Walkertown, 194; No. 54, Kernersville, 159; No. 79, Rural Hall, 80; No. 80, Southside, 314; No. 290, Jefferson, 34.

The annual meeting will convene on August 22 and will probably last through the 24th. Special rates have been offered by the railroads and a large number of members from this city and section will attend the meeting.

State Treasurer's Report.

George V. Fulp, of Kernersville, treasurer of the State Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., has also completed his annual report.

The cash on hand from last year amounted to $7,828.11 and together with receipts this year, amounting to $19,104.61, makes the total receipts for the present year $26,392.72.

The disbursements for the year, including expenses of all kinds aggregated the sum of $14,765.50, leaving a cash balance on hand of $12,167.22.

Bonds secured by deed of trust belonging to the State council aggregate $15,350, which together with the balance on hand of $12,167.22 makes the total resources of the State Council aggregate $27,517.22.

The value of furniture in the hands of Secretary Vance and some accrued interest not included in the above report brings the total resources up to $28,307.22.

OIL TRUST PAYS DIVIDEND.

Will Keep on Distributing Cash Until Date of Dissolution.

New York, Aug. 17.—The directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $6 per share. According to those familiar with the affairs of the Standard Oil Company, this dividend will not be the last one. Another will be declared in December at the old rates, it was said.

Earnings of all the subsidiary companies turned in the Standard Oil of New Jersey up to the time the stock of 33 companies affected by the recent Supreme Court decision are distributed will be distributed about December 1 next.

The next quarterly dividend will be payable on December 15, to stock of record about November 18, and earnings received up to the time of the distribution of stocks will more than cover the regular $10 disbursement due at that time. According to an official of the company, distribution will be made of earnings received right up to the time of dissolution.

SPARTANBURG PROPERTY BRINGS RECORD PRICE.

Price of $1,063.83 a Front Foot Secured. New Jersey Manufacturer the Buyer.

Spartanburg, Aug. 17.—Announcement was made today that J. W. Alexander, real estate broker, had sold for the owners, C. P. Sanders and the J. K. Jennings estate, to C. Brewster Chapman, a celluloid manufacturer of Glen Ridge, N. J., a lot 47 feet front and 200 feet deep on the north side of Morgan Square, improved with a two-story and office building.

The consideration was $50,000. This was at the rate of $1,063.83 a front foot, and is one of the highest prices ever paid for Spartanburg real estate. The first floor of the building is occupied by the People's Clothing Company and the Heinitsh Drug store, and the second floor is given over to offices.

It is expected that Mr. Chapman will improve the property. As there is a two-year lease on the land, however, nothing in the way of improvement will be done until it expires. Mr. Chapman visited Spartanburg last Thursday and instructed Mr. Alexander to close the negotiations which had been under way for a month. The deed was placed on record Monday. Mr. Chapman has a summer home in the North Carolina mountains and is familiar with this section.

JUST Rheumacide IT CURES

Rheumatism and Blood Diseases

The cause of rheumatism is excess uric acid in the blood. To cure rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with oils and liniments may ease the pain, but they will no more cure rheumatism than paint will change the fiber of rotten wood.

Cures Rheumatism To Stay Cured.

Science has discovered a perfect and complete cure called Rheumacide. Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected marvelous cures. Rheumacide removes the cause, gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. Sold by druggists at 50c. and $1; in the tablet form at 25c. and 50c., by mail. Booklet free.

GIRL'S BONES SEEM BRITTLE.

Slight Falls Sufficient to Shatter Them to Pieces.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 17.—Physicians in this and other cities are making a study of the case of Miss Ruth Morgan, aged 10 years, whose father, David Morgan, tenants the farm adjoining the Minqquidale Home, near this city. Miss Morgan is thought to have unusually soft or brittle bones in her body, for within a year she has had four slight falls in every one of which she sustained a broken bone.

Her latest accident occurred today when she fell one foot from a fence and broke an arm above the elbow. Last spring she fell from a step and broke a shoulder blade. Later in the summer she fell from a chair and broke an arm, but this fracture was healed before the girl or her parents knew anything about it. Three weeks ago she fell from a table and broke the other shoulder blade.

MANY FARMERS WILL GO BEFORE COMMISSIONERS

within what is termed a market district and they are charged a nominal sum before they are allowed to enter the district. With this method in vogue all people wishing to purchase go direct to the market district where they can select from the various buyers just what they want. Mr. Brown stated that if Greensboro had a place that could be termed a market district he believes that such an arrangement here would be quite acceptable to the farmers. However, as there are no streets available as a market place he had to do the best possible under the circumstances.

It has often been argued before the city officials, before the present administration took hold, however, that the thing for the city to do would be to purchase the auditorium and convert it into a market place, reserving a portion for the hitching of horses and leaving wagons and enclosing another portion as a waiting room where bundles could be checked and left by farmers until they were ready to go home. At present they have no place to hitch their horses, leave their wagons and must necessarily drive around by the several stores in which they make purchases before going home. With a suitable place like the auditorium they would be saved considerable trouble and could safely leave articles in care of the keeper of the building while they were attending to business matters on the streets.

Carolina Troops Go to Virginia.

Richmond, Aug. 17.—Governor Mann yesterday authorized the adjutant-general to allow the Fayetteville (N. C.) Independent light Infantry Company to enter the State of Virginia under arms. This approach upon the borders of the Commonwealth is not with any warlike intention. The Tar Heel soldiers realize what a good thing it is to be in Virginia and the company will camp at Ocean View for a week, beginning Aug. 21. The occasion will also be in celebration of the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the company.

GIRLS LEARNING HOW TO RAISE AND CAN TOMATOES

Recognizing the wide-felt benefit derived from the organization of Boys' Corn clubs, the Department of Agriculture at Washington has started a crusade of help for the girls of the country districts by organizing Girls' Tomato clubs. In this county the movement is being carried forward by Miss Lucille Kennette, of Pleasant Garden, and meetings of the three clubs already organized in various sections are being held. Under this expert supervision the thirty girls in the clubs are obtaining valuable knowledge concerning the raising and canning of tomatoes, and many of the surplus crop will probably be placed on the market when canned. The club has met during the week at McLeansville and north of the city and is today in progress at Pleasant Garden, and will later be held in the western portions of the county.

FEAST TWINS AND SPINNERS THIS AFTERNOON.

Yesterday's Winston Sentinel says:

The loyal baseball fans of Winston-Salem have decided to give the Twins and Greenville Spinners a big barbecue at Piedmont Park tomorrow evening.

The spread will be as a token of appreciation of the good work done this season by Manager Clancy and his men. Then, too, Tommy Stouch, manager of the Spinners, has a host of friends in these parts, he having managed the Greenville team for three seasons, taking the pennant last year and running Greensboro a close race for the rag the other two years. He is as clever as he is genteel, and while his team is in the cellar just at this time, the aggregation has been playing good ball since Tommy took charge.

It goes without saying that the barbecue will prove an enjoyable event and that the spread will be tempting in the extreme. Besides the two teams a number of local fans will be present and partake of the barbecued lamb and pork and other good things.

Beattie did not answer for several minutes, but continued looking through the window at the girl crying hysterically on the floor, an expression of deep interest on his otherwise immobile head, looking the reporter in the eye, features. Then he slowly turned his and made the most significant statement he has made since the murder.

"This is going to be a long-drawn-out affair," said Beattie, his eyes, half closed as though deep in thought, "but they'll never convict me." He said nothing more except to ask for a match and say that he preferred a Virginia made cigarette to a Turkish brand. Paul Beattie prefers Turkish cigarettes.

Attorneys and detectives for the prosecution do not believe the report that the attorneys for the defense will endeavor to prove Paul Beattie guilty of the murder. The prosecution says that if the defense considered such a plan the plan was abandoned after an investigation of the stanchness of Paul Beattie's alibi. Paul Beattie has evidence in defense of himself which cannot be shattered, the Commonwealth asserts.

VANDERBILT'SOWN AUTO ROAD.

Twenty Miles of it Within Boundaries of Biltmore Estate.

Asheville, Aug. 16.—An automobile roadway, all but two miles of it within the bounds of his 140,000-acre estate, has been built by George W. Vanderbilt covering 22 miles from Biltmore House to his hunting lodge at the summit of Mt. Pizgah, 5,757 feet high. With the building of a two- or three-mile cut-off, all the road will be on his domain. The track rises almost 3,000 feet in 22 miles, 2,000 of it being gained in the last six miles without any grade exceeding 7 per cent. This called for blasting tremendous rock cliffs and swinging sharp turns on the edge of sheer precipices, and now $20,000 more must be spent widening these turns.

A trial of Mr. Vanderbilt's new 60-horse power car show that its great length causes it to swing perilously over descents of hundreds of feet. The road is to be carried 20 miles farther to curve back to Biltmore House.

TWO BABIES THROWN OFF TRAIN AND KILLED.

Bodies of Infant Boy and Girl Found Along Jersey Tracks.

Pitman, N. J., Aug. 17.—Two babies, tied together in one bundle, were found dead along the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad track, near Sewell this morning. The infants were evidently thrown from a train during the night.

One, a boy, was about 4 monts older than the other, a girl.

Railroad Detective Curtis could get no clew to the perpetrator of the crime. Coroner Stout of Wenonah, took charge of the bodies.

75 PER CENT. OF THE BIG ADVERTISERS OF AMERICA PREFER

EVENING NEWSPAPERS

Out of 400 Large Department Stores 302 say they Prefer Evening Papers and Give Reasons Why

(FROM THE LOS ANGELES RECORD)

OUT of 400 letters sent to the large Department Stores of America asking which they considered a better medium for advertising, morning or an evening daily newspaper, 392 replied. Of these replies 302 stated they preferred the evening newspaper for advertising; 26 stated they gave the evening paper first copy when they used an evening and a morning paper. As the Department Stores are always the largest advertisers in their respective cities and are in a position to see where the results come from, their opinions, formed from experience, are most valuable. They all speak most emphatically of the advantages of the evening paper over the morning paper for advertising. Of these 302 advertisers who prefer the evening paper a large number of them use the evening paper exclusively and find the returns most profitable.

THE following statements made by the different large firms of America show why they prefer the evening paper over the morning paper:

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The evening paper is best, as it is the one that gets into the homes and stays there. Men carry the morning paper downtown on their way to work in most cases.—Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—The evening paper undoubtedly is the best advertising medium, because it most surely gets into the very hands toward which all department store advertising is intended—the women of the house—and because then there is plenty of time to read, plan and digest.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

CHICAGO, ILL.—We spend $325,000 a year and 75 per cent of it is in the evening papers and 25 per cent in Sunday papers. Even with our great morning papers we cannot make them pay, though the experimenting has cost us $100,000.—Siegel, Cooper & Co.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—We prefer the evening paper for advertising because the housekeeper, business man and working man have more time to go through the paper in detail after the day's work is over and have time to plan their next day's shopping. Our experience is that we get quicker and more direct results from the evening paper.—Fowler, Dick & Walker.

BOSTON, MASS.—We consider the evening paper the best medium, because it is taken home and the women get to see it.—Henry Siegel Company.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—We consider the evening newspaper better, because we cater to the working people, and they are employed from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and their only leisure time is in the evening, and they invariably take only evening papers, and have more time to read advertisements.—Cline Bros.

ALBANY, N. Y.—We consider the evening newspaper a better medium for advertising, because women have more time and better opportunity to read the evening papers.—Waldman Bros.

AKRON, OHIO—We consider an evening paper a superior medium. The evening paper goes direct to the homes and is more thoroughly read. It is read by men after business duties are through for the day and they are more liable to remember the advertising. The morning paper is used by office men.—C. H. Leager & Co.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—We consider the evening paper the best advertising medium, as the average woman does not take time to read a paper until her work is done.—Ed Schuster & Co.

DETROIT, MICH.—We prefer the evening paper.—Partridge & Blackwell.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—Best results from evening newspapers. The only time I use a morning paper is Sunday for Monday's business. Balance of the week the evening papers do the work to my entire satisfaction.—The Fair.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We use afternoon papers exclusively during the week. Morning papers on Sunday only.—John C. Lewis Company.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—For advertisements containing items of special prominence likely to produce a rush, the evening newspaper serves as a better advertising medium, first, because people as a rule, have more time to read an evening paper thoroughly and note the contents thereof; second, it gives an opportunity to shoppers to select what items they contemplate purchasing and allows them time to prepare a program for the next day's shopping.—Burgen Dry Goods Company.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We prefer the evening paper week days and the morning paper Sundays only, because the evening paper is brought to the home by the member of the family who goes to business and buys and reads the paper on his way home. The Sunday paper is delivered at the home and read in the home.—Price & Rosenbaum.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We consider the evening paper the better medium for advertising, mainly because the evening paper goes into the home and stays there when there is time for the whole family to read and consider.—Frederick Losser & Co.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—We have always given the evening paper the preference. We spend $40,000 a year for advertising and this all goes into newspapers. We use no other medium of any kind, as we consider ANYTHING OUTSIDE OF THE NEWSPAPER as money wasted.—W. H. Elsinger & Co.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—We consider the evening paper better as a general thing, for it is usually the home paper.—Callendar, McAuslin — Troup Co.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The evening paper is, in our opinion, most profitable for advertising.—The Wm. H. Block Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y,—We do most of our advertising in the evening paper.—Wm. Henerer Co.

BOSTON, MASS.—We prefer the evening paper by all means, because it goes into the homes directly, while the morning paper has a tendency to work back into the business section and does not reach the homes in such relative number as the evening paper.—Houghton & Dutton.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Where I've been, almost without exception, the evening paper is the best medium.—W. H. Milligan, Advertising Manager Field, Schlick & Co.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The evening paper by all means.—The Bailey Company.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—It is our opinion that the evening paper is better, as the shopper is prepared to sally forth the next morning.—Penny & Gentles.
